Spoke to Vernon. He seemed think it made sense for MSCC/PSI combo when I explained how we did things, but I suggested to him we might want to consult with our new county mayor. If he is interested in sending Dorcas, she would also be appropriate, but so would Harold actually. So Vernon is fine either way (county person or MSCC). If we don't have the actual county person, as long as we speak to how we interact with the county government, he's happy.

Bill, do you want to approach Mayor Harris about this or how do you want to proceed? Harold would be an excellent option, if not Dorcas, because he could definitely speak to the full relationship.

Maybe we should ask them for clarification on what constitutes a "county representative." If they want someone to be able to speak intelligently about how counties can work with research partners, Brona and I could do that. But if they want a county official person, then I'm not sure.

Dorcas is the obvious choice, but I'm not sure how much longer she'll around. An alternative is Harold.

Agree, sounds as though should be a county person. If there is a good option, sounds good. If not, would be interesting to go.

The invitation seems to indicate the other attendee should be a county official, although, Brona it's fine with me if you qualify as the other attendee. We'll figure it out next week.

Subject: NACo County-University Partnership Roundtable Invitation

Good Afternoon Ms. Pinnolis and Ms. Walker,

My name is Vernon Smith and I am the senior associate for justice at the National Association of Counties (NACo). We are holding a roundtable for county and university officials to discuss how counties create partnerships with local colleges and universities to assist with research, data collection/analysis/management and program implementation for justice initiatives. Participants will have the opportunity to discuss the needs, opportunities and challenges that arise when counties and universities collaborate. The discussions from this roundtable will be used to create a report for county and university leaders on ways to develop or enhance county and university partnerships in their own jurisdictions.

The roundtable will take place Friday, November 30, in Chicago, Ill. Our research indicates that Shelby County and The University of Memphis have partnered on publishing and analyzing local crime statistics, identifying evidence-based practices and solutions for crime prevention and working on the Safe Community plan through the Public Safety Initiative. We would be honored if one individual from Shelby County would participate in our roundtable in addition to a representative from The University of Memphis. If you have a university representative in mind that is wonderful; if not we are happy to work with you to identify the appropriate individual. NACo will cover hotel costs and reimburse travel expenses for both county and university participants. More detailed information about hotel and travel will be provided soon.

Please let me know if you are interested in participating or know of another person from Shelby County that would be a better fit for this roundtable. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to reach me at vsmith@naco.org or 202.661.8809.

Best,

Vernon
